Inner Workings: News and Advice

by Susan Thurston, Clerk of Court

Welcome to the Spring edition of our court newsletter, On the Docket. Throughout the winter months, we completed the conversion to a new email system and are now using all the Unify programs (Outlook, OneDrive, OneNote, SharePoint, Office Suite) for better collaboration and efficiency. In addition, we continue with our migration to a fully cloud-hosted environment for better access and continuity of operations and expect this work will complete by the end of 2019. This project has been a tremendous investment of time and energy and I would like to personally thank and acknowledge the hard work of our small IT team – Systems Manager Craig Balme and PC Systems Administrator Steve Stricklett for their dedication to this enormous effort. These two individuals work tirelessly every day to ensure our vast and complex network of servers, computers and electronic systems remain secure, available and up to date.

In March, we relocated our Bankruptcy Legal Clinic to the office adjacent to the court library. This decision was based on feedback from our volunteer attorneys and has resulted in a more spacious, traditional office setup with a window view that is more conducive to meeting with clinic customers. We also published clinic statistics as of March 31, 2019, which are available in full on the clinic website, but are summarized in the below charts. We remain extremely grateful for the generous support of our volunteer attorneys who serve the clinic and know that their commitment to the program is making a difference in people's lives.

Word of our excellent clinic program has been spreading throughout the bankruptcy court community. In February, we were asked to present details of our clinic at the 2019 Access to Justice conference at the Mohonk in New Paltz, New York, which conference was attended by judges, clerks and court staff from throughout the New England and East Coast regions. More recently, in May, we were invited to conduct a presentation about our free bankruptcy clinic to the New York Southern Bankruptcy Court and its Bankruptcy Bar, for possible adoption there. We had a wonderful experience sharing the success of our clinic and the incredible work of our volunteer attorneys who make it possible. In addition, we were fortunate to include a video at the end of the presentation from two of our volunteer attorneys – Lisa Geremia and Janet Goldman – who shared their experience and interest in the clinic and how it is serving our community by providing limited legal advice, while encouraging representation for maximum success. They did an outstanding job!

After enjoying the upcoming summer months (warm weather is finally coming??), get ready to meet and greet in the Fall! We have two training and networking opportunities for Rhode Island legal practitioners scheduled in Autumn, and we encourage your participation at both. On September 12, 2019, the Bankruptcy Court will be partnering with the RI Bar Association's Volunteer Lawyer Program to present a free CLE Bankruptcy Seminar from 1:00-4:00 PM, for attorneys who agree to accept a pro bono case. We have an excellent faculty lined up including the Honorable Bankruptcy Judge Diane Finkle, Chapter 13 Trustee John Boyajian, Chapter 7 Trustee Lisa Geremia, and attorneys Christopher Lefebvre and Russell Raskin. A brochure with details about the program will be available at the upcoming June Annual Bar Association meeting, as well as additional communication by the Court in the coming months.

Then, on Friday, October 18, 2019, the Federal Court will be hosting the 2019 District Court Conference at the Omni Providence, which all members of the Federal Bar are invited and encouraged to attend. Attorney Lisa Geremia serves on the conference planning committee and provided the following advance information:

The theme of the conference is: Independence of the Judiciary – a relevant and intriguing topic area. Preliminary topics include: “Court Packing”, Judicial Discipline and Origins of Judicial Independence. There will be 3 practice law sessions: Civil, Criminal and Immigration. There will also be morning and afternoon plenary sessions. It will be an exciting conference to attend with national speakers – more to come!

We strongly encourage your attendance at this year's District Conference as it is only held every-other year and is an excellent opportunity to gain insights into federal practice, as well as the opportunity to network with court members and colleagues.

Lastly, I wanted to share news about the recent retirement of Massachusetts Bankruptcy Judge Joan N. Feeney. On Thursday, May 2nd, the Massachusetts Bankruptcy Court held a special session to bid farewell to Judge Feeney, who has served that court for nearly 27 years, having first been appointed on October 6, 1992. Judge Feeney also recently concluded her tenure as the Chief Judge of the First Circuit Bankruptcy Appellate Panel. During her long career, Judge Feeney occasionally served as a bankruptcy judge in Rhode Island due to judge conflicts or caseload needs and was always a delight to work with. Thus, many of you may have appeared before her either in Massachusetts or Rhode Island and experienced what a kind and gifted jurist she was. Her presence among the First Circuit bankruptcy bench will be missed. At the recent May ceremony, her judicial portrait was unveiled, a photo of which we share with you below.

Recent Court Decision

by Natalie Medved and Jon Pincince, Law Clerks

Here is a short digest of the Court's most recently published decision. As always, many opinions and orders are available on the Court's website.

In re Soori-Arachi, BK No. 17-10570 (Chapter 7) (March 26, 2019):

The Court sustained the chapter 7 trustee's objection to the debtor's exemption of his non-qualified deferred variable annuity, which the debtor's father had purchased pre-petition in a custodial capacity pursuant to Nebraska's Uniform Transfers to Minors Act, under R.I. Gen. Laws §§ 27-4-11 and 27-4-12. The Court determined that R.I. Gen. Law § 27-4-12 did not protect the debtor's interest in the annuity from the reach of his creditors because he, having reached Nebraska's age of majority prior to his bankruptcy filing, was not a non-owner beneficiary who lacked the contractual ability to exercise dominion and control over the annuity. The Court also found that R.I. Gen. Laws § 27-4-11 did not exempt the debtor's interest in the annuity from the bankruptcy estate because the governing annuity contract was not a life insurance policy.

Tips and Tricks

by Pam Ricciarelli and Jen Davis, Case Managers

1. LBR 1005-1(d) Objection Response Language should not be included on Objection-type pleadings (with the exception of objection to claim/exemption) – When filing an Objection (or other response) to a pending motion or similar moving document (notice of proposed sale, application to compromise, etc.) you should not include the Required Response Time Language specified in LBR 1005-1(d) to your objection/response pleading. This language is intended to provide notice of the time to respond to moving documents, and not to provide further response deadlines to objections/responses. The Clerk’s office has noticed many Objections filed with this template language included, causing confusion to recipients.
2. Payment Advices -- Have you had an Affidavit of Non-Existence of Payment Advices terminated by the Court for failure to comply with LBR 1005-2(a) or (b)? To help ensure your affidavit is properly drafted, we have created a MS Word template of the Affidavit of Non-Existence of Payment Advices, which is available on our website under commonly used forms for your use. Please consider using this form to avoid having to refile with the correct affidavit language included.
